

I am writing with opinions on proceeding 02-278. I strongly object to any FCC interference with Indiana's current Telephone Privacy Law. I value the protection the current law provides me and my family. Since I enrolled in the Privacy Law program, my annoyance calls, telemarketing products or services in which I never have interest, have been virtually eliminated. I never buy products or services via telephone or from door-to-door sales. I object to any law that prevents my privacy in such matters. My job required me to work "non-traditional" hours, and these calls frequently interrupt sleep or other family activities. Why? Because it is a convenient time for the telemarketers to call with their useless products and services. I am on call at work and I also want to receive any emergency or other personal important calls, so turning off my phone during my non-traditional sleep hours is not an option. I appreciate the privacy this law provides me and I do not want it to change.
Thank you.

David E. Risley